The Architectural League Prize for Young Architects + Designers: (im)permanence

Call for entries

Young architects and designers are invited to submit work by the Architectural League Prize for Young Architects + Designers: (im)permanence. The competition is open to current, full-time residents, who are ten years or less out of undergraduate or graduate school. Current students are ineligible. Entrants must submit individually or as a group. If an individual has been the sole recipient of the Architectural League Prize, he or she must submit work done independently, no work done as an employee of a firm, where the entrant is not a principal, or partner is eligible for submission. No student work completed for any academic program or degree is eligible for submission. Collaborative work will be considered within the context of a role in the definition of architecture. Further, the cultural proliferation of short term projects redefines permanence as a role in the definition of architecture.

Theme

The competition asks entrants to consider the form and meaning of impermanence or permanence for short-term gain. Have we drastically lowered our expectations of projects that will last? Does the design of temporary structures interfere with the ability to architect, and if so, why? Or does the trend suggest a new paradigm whereby permanence rightly plays less of a role in the definition of architecture?

Eligibility

The competition is open to current, full-time residents, who are ten years or less out of undergraduate or graduate school. Current students are ineligible. Entrants must submit individually or as a group. If an individual has been the sole recipient of the Architectural League Prize, he or she must submit work done independently, no work done as an employee of a firm, where the entrant is not a principal, or partner is eligible for submission. No student work completed for any academic program or degree is eligible for submission. Collaborative work will be considered within the context of a role in the definition of architecture. Further, the cultural proliferation of short term projects redefines permanence as a role in the definition of architecture.

Submission requirements

The competition is open to current, full-time residents, who are ten years or less out of undergraduate or graduate school. Current students are ineligible. Entrants must submit individually or as a group. If an individual has been the sole recipient of the Architectural League Prize, he or she must submit work done independently, no work done as an employee of a firm, where the entrant is not a principal, or partner is eligible for submission. No student work completed for any academic program or degree is eligible for submission. Collaborative work will be considered within the context of a role in the definition of architecture. Further, the cultural proliferation of short term projects redefines permanence as a role in the definition of architecture.

Theme

The competition asks entrants to consider the form and meaning of impermanence or permanence for short-term gain. Have we drastically lowered our expectations of projects that will last? Does the design of temporary structures interfere with the ability to architect, and if so, why? Or does the trend suggest a new paradigm whereby permanence rightly plays less of a role in the definition of architecture?

Eligibility

The competition is open to current, full-time residents, who are ten years or less out of undergraduate or graduate school. Current students are ineligible. Entrants must submit individually or as a group. If an individual has been the sole recipient of the Architectural League Prize, he or she must submit work done independently, no work done as an employee of a firm, where the entrant is not a principal, or partner is eligible for submission. No student work completed for any academic program or degree is eligible for submission. Collaborative work will be considered within the context of a role in the definition of architecture. Further, the cultural proliferation of short term projects redefines permanence as a role in the definition of architecture.

Submission requirements

The competition asks entrants to consider the form and meaning of impermanence or permanence for short-term gain. Have we drastically lowered our expectations of projects that will last? Does the design of temporary structures interfere with the ability to architect, and if so, why? Or does the trend suggest a new paradigm whereby permanence rightly plays less of a role in the definition of architecture?

Theme

The competition asks entrants to consider the form and meaning of impermanence or permanence for short-term gain. Have we drastically lowered our expectations of projects that will last? Does the design of temporary structures interfere with the ability to architect, and if so, why? Or does the trend suggest a new paradigm whereby permanence rightly plays less of a role in the definition of architecture?

Eligibility

The competition asks entrants to consider the form and meaning of impermanence or permanence for short-term gain. Have we drastically lowered our expectations of projects that will last? Does the design of temporary structures interfere with the ability to architect, and if so, why? Or does the trend suggest a new paradigm whereby permanence rightly plays less of a role in the definition of architecture?

Submission requirements

The competition asks entrants to consider the form and meaning of impermanence or permanence for short-term gain. Have we drastically lowered our expectations of projects that will last? Does the design of temporary structures interfere with the ability to architect, and if so, why? Or does the trend suggest a new paradigm whereby permanence rightly plays less of a role in the definition of architecture?

Theme

The competition asks entrants to consider the form and meaning of impermanence or permanence for short-term gain. Have we drastically lowered our expectations of projects that will last? Does the design of temporary structures interfere with the ability to architect, and if so, why? Or does the trend suggest a new paradigm whereby permanence rightly plays less of a role in the definition of architecture?
Entry form

Please fill out all three parts of the entry form and insert, intact, into an unsealed envelope attached to the inside back cover of the submission. No identification may appear within the portfolio. Forms may be duplicated. Please also complete the online entry form which you may find at archleague.org

General information

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Entrant(s)</th>
<th>Firm</th>
<th>Mailing address</th>
<th>Phone</th>
<th>Email</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year of graduation</th>
<th>Degree</th>
<th>Institution</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Payment type

- Online
- Cash
- Check (made payable to “The Architectural League of New York”)

I/we would like my/our portfolio returned, and have enclosed a self-addressed envelope with postage with my/our submission

Do you or your firm’s/schools work done in co-firm with non-entering firm partners or unrelated collaborators?

If yes, please visit archleague.org to download forms outlining and attributing partner/collaborator roles in submitted projects. Please include these forms in the unsealed envelope at the back of your portfolio.

Eligibility agreement

The undersigned confirms that his/her/their entry meets both the eligibility and submission requirements. The undersigned also acknowledges his/her/their agreement, if chosen as a winner, to allow publication of his/her work in a book to be published about the competition by The Architectural League.

Signature(s) of Entrant(s)

Portfolio identification slip

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Entrant(s)</th>
<th>Firm</th>
<th>Email</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>